Annual Report 2019-2020

National Association for Street Vendors of India, an organization working for the protection of the livelihood rights of thousands of street vendors across the country. Beginning as a Network in 1998, NASVI was registered in 2003 under the Societies Registration Act of 1860.

The main objective behind establishing NASVI is to bring together the street vendor organizations in India so as to collectively struggle for macro-level changes which had become imminent to support the livelihood of around 10 million vendors which stand severely threatened due to outdated laws and changing policies, practices and attitudes of the powers that be.

NASVI is a national federation of street vendor organizations. It is a coalition of Trade Unions, Community Based Organizations (CBOs), Non-Government Organizations (NGOs) and professionals.

The Street Vendors Act 2014

With its extensive efforts NASVI has been able to get a National Policy for Urban street Vendors in 2004 that was revised in the year 2009, NASVI began focusing on the needs to enact the law for street vendors. The Parliament enacted the Street Vendors (Protection of Livelihood and Regulation of Street Vending) Act, 2014. The main aim of the Act is:

- Town Vending Committee (TVC) comprising 40% street vendors in every city.
- Local Authority to act only on the recommendations of the TVC.
- Survey at least once in very five years of all the existing vendors.
- Surveyed vendors to be issued a certificate of vending and will pay fee.
- Police or any other law cannot prevent any certified vendors from exercising such rights.
- Relocation and goods seizure rules framed.
- Judicial Committee form Grievance redressal.

As the State Governments and Municipal bodies prepared rules and schemes (mandatory under the law) for implementation, NASVI played a key role of looking over to ensure that the gains in the law are not diluted. NASVI has made several efforts in getting the law implemented. For instance, organising campaigns for early implementation through people's voice and media advocacy, raising the issues of non-implementation through various forms, pushing the implementation through courts, capacity building of Street Vendor leaders and their organisations, creating awareness among the street vendors, and assisting the State Governments and Municipal bodies in implementing the law.

National Conference and Annual General Meeting

NASVI conducts a National Convention and Annual General meeting every year with vendor leaders from across the country. Also an Executive Meeting is conducted twice a year in order to review and plan the strategy for the future reference along with the Elected State Member Representatives.

National Convention and Annual General Meeting was on “Street Vending in India after SV Act 2014: Possibilities and Challenges” at Sir Puttanna Shetty Town Hall, Bengaluru on 6th -7th September, 2019.

The convention was attended by 700 representatives of street vendors from 400 cities and this was inaugurated by Smt Gangambike Mallikarjun Worshipful Mayor, BBMP, Karnataka including Shri Rajesh Verma Dy. Inauguration of the Convention by Dignitaries

Mayor BBMP, Smt Gangambike Mallikarjun told that Vendors would be given a separate Space to vend, In the 8 areas of the Bangeluru Metropolitan City, street vendors will be settled on footpaths, although it will also be taken care that pedestrians should not face any problem, we are working on this scheme. There are 80000 street vendors in Bangalore, of which 24000 have been given identity cards. In case of not getting proper employment, doing business on footpath is not a crime from anywhere.

Sri HT Sangliana (IPS), Ex DG and IG & MP-Street vendors need to be provided insurance, housing facilities, health plans and other facilities. Many times street vendors are harassed by the staff of the municipality and the police department. A letter should be written to the Commissioner of Police to take action against the policemen who misbehaved with these vendors. We see that in every city, the retail vendors are getting worried. NASVI should develop organization everywhere.

Former Home Minister, Government of Karnataka, Sri Ramalinga Reddy said that it needs to be discussed to solve the problem of pavement traders. A federation delegation will have to meet the Chief Minister. If a businessman is harassed by a municipal or policeman, complain to the Deputy Commissioner of Police of the area concerned. All pavement shopkeepers must unite to achieve social justice.

Ms. Sumathi (KMAS) Project Officer DAY-NULM, Karnataka told the conference that State Government committed to reach the Street vendors. Rules has been notified and very soon Schemes would be notified by the state. We are focusing in formation of Town Vending Committee in each and every Urban local Body. NASVI shared the vision of training the vendors and the meeting ended with good vibes. It was one of the best experiences with Municipal corporation commissioner; we are hopeful that we will be able to do something historic in Srinagar. It is too early to visualize any progress at this stage, but this meeting is a positive indicator that more development will happen in future in matters relating to street vendors.

NASVI Street Foof on Netflix –

That's the first line that narrates the trailer for Netflix's upcoming series, Street Food, has been launched on 26th april,2019. The show, has come from the team behind Chef's Table, was announced last month, and has aimed to "take viewers to some of the world's most vibrant cities to explore the rich culture of street food all over the globe," per a tweet from co-creator Brian McGinn. Season one is all about Asia, and McGinn teased that Street Food will visit nine countries total, including Singapore and India. This is a great achievement for NASVI and street vendors as Dalchand 's story has been featured in the series.

Viewers will travel to Bangkok, Thailand; Osaka, Japan; Delhi, India; Yogyakarta, Indonesia; Chiayi, Taiwan; Seoul, South Korea; Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam; Singapore; and Cebu, Philippines. In the roughly two-minute trailer, we see fiery sautéés, noodles pulled and soups ladled, a blowtorch in action, and plenty of enthusiastic customers as various narrators weigh in on the meaning and importance of street food culture. One notes "people have been doing the same dish for 40, 50, 60 years—they never went to culinary school," while another calls it "a chaotic paradise of food."

Self Help Global

The exit from Streetnet of certain member organizations, and the negative impulses that come from other affiliated organizations regarding the way of governing in Streetnet, has led NASVI (INDIA), UPTA (SPAIN) and SIVARA (ARGENTINA) to constitute a new organization representing self-employed workers, inside and outside the informal economy.

This new organization, called Self Workers Global, has statutes of professional association, not of NGO. Statutes approved by the Ministry of Internal Affairs of Spain, in accordance with international legislation on professional associations.

Our main objective is to claim rights in social protection for self-employed workers, support the creation of new self-employment sites, homogenize the rights and duties of self-employed workers around the world, and denounce the attacks suffered by our affiliates by the different governments.

Our strength is based on transparency and participation. SWG will give voice to each and every one of its member organizations, without vetoes, without interventionism. We want SWG to have a trade union character as well as a representation, claim and defense character.

Challenges after 5 years of constitution of Street Vendors LAW

Street vendors are running out of patience: after getting the smart city hypothesis, the National Urban Livelihood Mission Fund, the Act and in some places the court orders, the vendors are unable to understand where their problem is due to difficulty. Their struggle is going on long against powerful anti-forces and they are no longer able to bear it. They want solutions for their livelihood.

Continuous involvement of central and state government: We see this as a major problem because it will not be possible to implement the act without their involvement. They know about issues but avoid joining it beyond a point. Municipal bodies work under the state government and they work only on the instructions of the state government.

Town Vending Meetings: Town Vending Committees Meetings are not organized regularly. Even taking decisions is not taken seriously. Municipal authorities are still making decisions without consultation with the TVC, which is violating the Street Vending Act.

Urban forces are strong against Vendors: Market associations or resident welfare organizations are struggling to use their money to prevent the development of development. Many people go to courts and receive court orders to evict vendors without mentioning the Street Vending Act.

State Government tendering mechanism is faulty: it makes organization's partnership like us very difficult and the agencies which are being taken on the tender often look at the street vendor organization as a hurdle in their work. Many municipal bodies do not allow organizations registered under the Societies Act to participate.

Capacity building of TVC members: More than 2000 TVCs have been set up but their capacity is not being created and thus they are unable to clarify their needs.

To move forward in organizing street food vendors: It is good that we have come to this stage but for organizing at the city level, further improve the work of committees at the state level. Organizing is a good effort but we are prepared for it.
